

In the cozy living room the mom has noticed that her child is watching TV and things that he should start reading.

Mom acts interested while showing the tablet to her child.

The child sees the colorful homescreen with colorful illustrations and enticing stories.

As the mom has picked the categories, the child immediately found the story that he likes.

The child is intently swipes through the pictures of the comic which are slightly animated.

They are sitting together and discussing the existing stories that the child is reading.